Roanoke Electric announces rate increase

By Curtis Wynn

Executive Vice President and CEO

Dear Members:

On April 1, Roanoke Electric will implement our first rate adjustment since 2002. We value you as a customer and place a strong emphasis on providing you with exceptional service. To maintain the quality, reliability and integrity of services we provide, it is necessary to adjust our pricing structure.

While virtually all aspects of today's cost of living continue to rise, we pride ourselves on avoiding routine price adjustments. Despite sky-rocketing fuel costs, Roanoke Electric and its members have enjoyed one of the longest periods of rate stability in recent history. Some electric utilities have raised rates two or three in times in four or five years to keep pace with rising costs.

We only consider an adjustment when we really have to. We believe that reliable electric service at a reasonable price is something that you can count on and that we deliver on a daily basis. The new rate increase is based on numerous factors, the largest of which is purchased power. Energy and power generation costs have been escalating over the past two years. The cost of materials that we use to bring power to you, including poles, wires and transformers have doubled in many cases.

As our member-consumers, we must ask you to share in these costs. Maintaining dependable service at the most affordable price possible remains the cornerstone of our business. To accomplish the goal, we also must protect our organization's integrity and financial stability.

Your electric bill includes a "Fuel Adjustment Cost." This charge is not to pay for gas that goes in our company trucks and other vehicles. This charge was implemented to allow us to pay for energy that we transmit to you, the member. We will remove this charge in April and calculate it into your regular rate and increase that rate by 6.5 percent.

To meet your electric needs, we join together with other electric cooperatives in North Carolina to purchase power for you. By joining with the other cooperatives, we are able to gain economies of scale that otherwise may not be available. This allows us to keep your increase to a minimum.

We want to reassure you that Roanoke Electric will remain proactive in planning for your future energy needs. We work hard to anticipate potential issues that could escalate the costs. Whenever possible, we work to minimize the impact those issues could have on your energy bill.

There are times that unforeseen circumstances cause change or have the potential to change the stability of our cooperative. This is one of those times. Although we must raise our price to cover the costs of doing business, we are committed to ensuring this occurrence has the smallest possible impact on you.

As the economy grows in our service territory, Roanoke Electric has invested millions of dollars in infrastructure to update our power supplies and to provide new lines to new businesses and residences. We have recently completed installing automated meter reading systems throughout our service area. These automated systems allow us to read your meter from our headquarters and ensure accuracy and over time will save you money.

We are committed to providing you with reliable, affordable and environmentally responsible electric service. If you have any questions or concerns regarding the implementation of this rate adjustment, we encourage you to call our offices at (252) 539-2236 or visit our Web site at www.roanokeelectric.com to learn more. We will do our best to answer your questions and we look forward to working with you on ways that you may be able to reduce your monthly bill. One strategy may be to implement energy efficiency programs into your home or to calculate your energy use and to budget your energy use. Visit our Web site to conduct your own home energy audit or learn tips on how to save.

We're here to help and to deliver the reliable power you've come to know and expect.

CISNE and Weldon City Schools sign mentoring agreement

Agreement means better future for Halifax youth

The future is brighter for students in Weldon, thanks to a recent agreement between Communities In Schools of the Northeast (CISNE) and Weldon City Schools.

The Memorandum of Agreement, signed recently, formalizes their collaborative partnership and lays out a comprehensive plan to mentor

Weldon City School third graders in reading and preparing them for end of grade exams. Known as Partnership for School Success (or PaSS), the program takes place over a ten-week period and gives Weldon third-graders the opportunity to engage in a one-on-one mentoring relationship specifically tailored to their needs.

The program will likely be held on site at Weldon City Schools.

Weldon City Schools and CISNE plan to encourage student achievement by focusing on five basics:

- A one-on-one relationship with a caring adult
- A safe place to learn and grow
- A healthy start and a healthy future
- A marketable skill to use upon graduation
- A chance to give back to peers and the community

Administered by CISNE, the program also provides volunteers with training. Volunteers who participate in PaSS mentoring commit one hour weekly to work with students and help them prepare for exams.

Rosetta Smith, program administrator for CISNE, has helped several education leaders assess their respective needs. To learn more about services, contact Rosetta Smith at (252) 539-2236 or visit www.roanokecenter.org.

Innovations at REC include new outage software

REC engineers and other employees are working with new, innovative software from MilSoft that promises to better manage outages as they occur.

It covers consumer outage detection notification, point of outage prediction, crew dispatch and tracking, planned outage notification, and outage reporting. "This software has the ability to do things that until now we had to rely on a very few specialists to do," said George Price, Vice President of Engineering and Operations.

The software has Web-based features. This means that authorized staff members such as communicators and customer service representatives will be able to access the number of outages and locations to relay to the public.

"Anytime you automate something there is less chance for mistakes and that means better efficiency and reliability," said Price.

The new software will help Roanoke Electric achieve its ultimate goal – keeping power on for members. "We look for every avenue possible to make sure that our members are happy," Price said.

CISNE workshops focus on training mentors

Rosetta Smith, a former art teacher from Niagara Falls, N.Y., knows the tragedy of kids dropping out of school. She's seen it first hand.

Before becoming program administrator for Communities In Schools of the Northeast (CISNE), Smith volunteered many hours to work with at-risk kids in the Roanoke-Chowan area. Now she wants to equip other volunteers to do the same.

That was the drive behind a CISNE Mentoring Youth Training Workshop held in December 2006 at The Roanoke Center in Rich Square. CISNE, an affiliate of Roanoke Electric Cooperative, focuses on strengthening public education so all students can reach their optimum potential.

The mentoring training workshops are meant to do two main things:

- give participants insight on how to be an effective mentor, and
- connect schools with the community to improve education for area students.

Participants come from schools and community organizations throughout Bertie, Halifax, and Hertford counties. "Studies show that students who have a mentor, whether that be in the form of a parent, family member, coach, teacher, etc. have a better chance of succeeding academically," said Rosetta Smith, CISNE program coordinator.

The Mentoring Training also provides participants with news updates, information on changes in state law, tips on how to create a successful mentoring partnership and motivational methods to help youth reach their highest aptitude.

CISNE volunteers agreed that the mentoring training workshops make a difference. "The more equipped you are, the better job you can do for the children," said workshop attendee Kathy Carter. The mother of a six-year-old, Carter said the workshop has also helped her be a more effective parent.

"CISNE is always looking for caring people to volunteer as tutors, mentors, lunch and reading buddies or for parenting workshops, career days and community service projects," said Smith.

Communities In Schools of NC Field Services Specialist Donya Perry (right) speaks with a student during a mentoring training event at The Roanoke Center in Rich Square.

Last year, the board of directors for Communities in Schools in North Carolina (CISNC) appointed REC's CEO Curtis Wynn to serve on the state board. "This is a tremendous honor for me to have the chance to contribute to efforts to improve education in North Carolina," said Wynn.

"Our co-op's future hinges on the success of our local schools producing a well-prepared workforce. This workforce, with the right training, will have the skills to meet the needs of local employers," he said. "Having statewide involvement with CISNC allows us to take our commitment to education to a whole new level."

Spring GALA to benefit CISNE

Work like this does not come without a price tag and volunteers are only part of the equation. CISNE requires funds to support training and educational materials to keep CISNE's programs running smoothly. To supplement its budget, CISNE is hosting a spring GALA on Saturday, April 28. Festivity plans include a silent auction.

If you are looking for an opportunity to give back to the community, gain work or life experience, participate in a mentoring or tutoring workshop, or assist with organizing CISNE's GALA, contact Rosetta Smith at (252) 539-2236, ext. 280, or e-mail her at rsmith@roanokeelectric.com.

CISNE also accepts in-kind services, equipment, supplies, books, and monetary donations.

Business services assist contractors with office tasks

By Stephanie Duffey

Hey contractors, wouldn't it be great if you had someone to handle your back office operations so you can spend more time on the job?

Well, now there is, thanks to Roanoke Construction Group's Business Support Services in Rich Square. The Business Support Services division of Roanoke Construction Group is expanding the services contractors can tap into to relieve them of the burden of administrative tasks necessary to the proper function of their businesses.

"More often than not, contractors are so busy doing estimates, picking up supplies and materials, driving from job to job and managing work crews that they don't have the time or energy to devote to paperwork," said Roanoke Construction Group Director Sondra Dickens.

The services, which include everything from scheduling jobs and consultations to preparing contracts for customers and executing marketing plans, make it easier for contractors to continue their field productivity without being bogged down by office paperwork. "This service is particularly helpful for contractors who do not have any office staff," said Dickens.

To manage these services, Roanoke Construction Group sought the expertise of Robin Artis, who now serves as Director of Business Services. No stranger to the task, Artis performs the same type of administrative duties for Roanoke Energy Resources, Inc., a subsidiary of Roanoke Electric Cooperative.

"Contractors want to grow their businesses and increase their capacity to handle larger jobs, and we want to help them," said Artis. Other business support services available to contractors include: procuring materials, executing invoice/job owner validation, invoicing, collecting current and past due accounts, coordinating customer loans, obtaining permits, finding sub-contractors, and coordinating customer callbacks.

For more about Roanoke Construction Group's Business Support Services, contact Robin Artis at (252) 539-2236, ext. 263 or Sondra Dickens, ext. 282.

Robin Artis serves as Director of Business Services for Roanoke Construction Group.

Letter from the editor

This is the last time that I'll write to you from the Roanoke Electric Cooperative offices. After a year and a half serving as editor for your member magazine "Flashes," I have accepted a new position as a communications specialist at Wake Electric Membership Corporation in Youngsville.

I want to thank you for the opportunity to serve you. Our members are the number one priority here at Roanoke Electric. It has been a privilege to make you that priority.

REC has given me one of the happiest and most rewarding experiences of my professional life, and I want to thank all of the staff. Their commitment and enthusiasm for this co-op will inspire me always.

I know that my successor will be received with the same wonderful welcome that you gave me not so very long ago and I look forward to watching "Flashes" grow under new leadership.

REC's service territory is growing by leaps and bounds as economic development progresses. Your CEO, Curtis Wynn, and his managers are dedicated 100 percent to that growth and development and work hard every day to ensure that you receive the most reliable and efficient energy possible.

As prices continue to rise to bring that energy to you, I encourage you to learn all you can about how to conserve energy. You have the power to control your home energy costs and REC is here to help you. Be sure to read "Flashes" each month to learn new ways to save.

Best wishes to all of you,
Angela Perez

WANTED:

Roanoke Electric Cooperative seeks to return refunds to these people

The list on this page contains names of former members of Roanoke Electric Cooperative who moved off the co-op's system or were otherwise disconnected and left unclaimed money. If you know any of these people, please pass the word on to them so they can claim their refund.

Persons wishing to claim a refund will be required to visit the cooperative office in Rich Square, and verify their identity to substantiate their claim.

In addition, Roanoke Electric continues to retire Capital Credits that accumulate to the estates of deceased members. If an application for a Capital Credits refund has not been submitted to the cooperative on behalf of a deceased member, the proper representative for such deceased members may apply at the cooperative's office and the cooperative will process the application. For more information, please call 1-800-433-2236.
